HARRY EASTMAN COMING HOME

"I Guess I Will Eventually Return to Wrangell and Open the Canadian Club Again," He Says.

St. David's Place, Morrison Street, Edinburgh, April 4, 1919.

Dear Mr. Pritchett: I have to acknowledge your kind New Year letter. My wife forwarded it and the Sentinels. I was being shifted from one place to another in France before being sent to England and it was the middle of March before I received them.

I have never been fortunate enough to meet any of the Wrangell boys much as I have tried.

Since coming to this side of the channel I was first at Knotty Ash camp, Liverpool, for about a month, and now I am at Buxton (the married men's camp), waiting patiently for a boat to take wife and me over to Canada.

I am at present on a four days' leave of absence. I can tell you time is never so short as when one is on leave.

When I get settled after demobilization I will try and give you an account of my experiences in France.

As we are expecting to sail during the next week or two it will be better not to reply to this address. I will write again from wherever I may be after leaving the army, when I will be pleased to have a note from you.

I guess I will eventually go to Wrangell and open the Canadian Club again.

With best wishes for yourself and Mrs. Pritchett from myself and Mrs. Eastman, I remain, Yours very truly,

Harry B. Eastman, J. W. Pritchett, Esq., Wrangell, Alaska, U.S.A.

KETCHIKAN MINER CHANGES OWNERSHIP

A. Rivard Is Succeeded by Bernard M. Stone

The Ketchikan Miner has changed management, the new owners taking control today.

B. M. Stone, a well known newspaper man, formerly of Nome, and later of Seward, is now in charge of the Miner.

The Ketchikan Printing company, which was organized early last month, recently took a thirty day option on the two papers published at Ketchikan—the Miner and the Pioneer. Mr. Stone then went to the States to obtain the additional equipment necessary for issuing an up-to-date daily.

While in Seattle Mr. Stone made arrangement for his paper to receive the well known Todd news service, which is very popular with the Alaska newspapers. Under the new management the Miner will receive a more complete news service.

Another thing Mr. Stone did while in Seattle was to engage as city editor Mr. E. G. Morrissey, formerly of Fairbanks, and later secretary to Delegate Sulzer at Washington. Mr. Morrissey was on the staff of the Post-Intelligencer when Mr. Stone induced him to come north again.

Mr. Stone is an experienced newspaper man, and full of enterprise. Under his management the Miner will hold an important place in the journalism of the North.

St. Philip's Church

10:30 a. m. Holy Communion.

11:30 a. m. Bible school.

He was shown—and believed.

Is it not a help to us that among the apostles there was the honest doubter who was so convinced that, in spite of his doubts, believed. What is there that should convince today? Come and help.

Most packages were short of postage and were held in New York post office.

SAN FRANCISCO—Two infernal machines were received through the mail here today. One was addressed to District Attorney Fickert, and one to Assistant District Attorney Cunha. Both men were in the hospital when packager bearing Gimel Brothers labels were received at their offices.

ATLANTA—Infernal machine mailed to former senator Hardwick, exploded burning Miss Hardwick about the face. It blew off both hands of her negro maid. The wrapper bore the name of Gimbel Bros. of New York, same as that sent to Mayor Hansen of Seattle.

GADSDEN, ALABAMA—Congressman Burnett, chairman of the Immigration committee, received an infernal machine through the mails. Being unable to open it easily he became suspicious and turned it over to the police. The latter fired a bullet into the package causing a terrific explosion. It bore the label of Gimel Bros., of New York, the same as 18 others mailed to men prominent in public life including Mayor Ole Hanson of Seattle, and Senator Thomas W. Harwick of Georgia.

SOME INFORMATION FOR DISCHARGED SOLDIERS

Seattle, April 23, 1919.

H. D. Campbell, Chairman Home Service, Wrangell, Alaska.

We have today received a telegram from Washington asking that we give full publicity to the fact that army authorities have not yet formulated plans for paying the travel pay of discharged men and that no claim should be sent to the War Department until the plan is officially announced. Notification of this plan will be promptly sent to you.

Many discharged soldiers who received their discharge prior to the passage of the law providing for the five cent per mile transportation, are applying to Home Service Sections for information as to how application should be made. Please inform all these men that the War Department's plans have not been effected but that just as soon as they are Home Service Sections will be notified and they in turn can advise the men.

Very sincerely yours,
R. E. Arne,
Assistant Director of Civilian Relief

FISHING NOTES

(Pacific Fisherman)

Action toward a settlement of some of the questions regarding liability of canned salmon, held at Seattle to local taxation has been taken by the F. C. Barnes company of Portland, Ore., which filed suit April 3 to enjoin officials of King county, Wash., from collecting taxes on 2,426 cases of salmon. It is alleged in the suit that the goods were held at Seattle for the Government and were not taxable. Assessor Frank W. Hull, Treasurer W. A. Gaines and Sheriff John Stringer are named as defendants.

While the effort made in the recent meeting of the Washington legislature to limit the privilege of fishing more closely to American citizens did not succeed, Attorney-General L. L. Thompson has given out an opinion that aliens who obtained fishing licenses under a declaration of intention to become American citizens, and later refused military service under their rights as aliens, forfeited the right to fish along with other citizenship rights. Fish Commissioner Darwin is taking action against a number of fishermen and clam diggers who forfeited their citizenship in this way.

The Alaska Fish company is having a cannery tender built by the Western Boat Building company, Tacoma, Wash., for use in connection with its plant at Waterfall, Alaska. The boat is 75 ft. long, 17½ ft. in the beam and has a draft of 8 ft., and will be powered with a 100 h. p. C-O type Fairbanks-Morse oil engine. The same company is having a new purse seine boat built, which will be equipped with a 27 h. p. Atlas engine.

On the suggestion of Henry O'Malley, Pacific Coast field agent of the Bureau of Fisheries, Dr. H. M. Smith, U. S. Commissioner of Fisheries, recently took up the matter of investigating the production of herring in Scotland, with a view to determining the extent of Scotch competition in the American market for the guidance of Alaska packers in outfitting for this season's work. The matter was referred to Secretary Redfield, with the result that the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce has made preliminary arrangements to have Aug. H. D. Klie, the well-known herring expert, visit Scotland and make a survey of producing conditions.

The Chatham Straits Fish company, headed by Olaf Aune of Seattle, is preparing to put in a new herring salting outfit this season at a point called New Port Walter, in the vicinity of the plants of the Alaska Herring and Sardine company and the Alaska-Pacific Herring company.

The Diamond Fish company, which operated last year at Warm Springs Bay, Alaska, packing about 7,000 bbls. of Scotch cured herring has decided not to operate the plant this season.

The Marani Products company of Anacortes, Wash., has been figuring for some time on extending its field of operations in fish by-products to Alaska, owing to the shortage of raw material available for its Puget Sound plant. Some preliminary work has been done toward the construction of a plant at Hawk Inlet, and while the company has announced no definite plans, it is expected that equipment will be installed there before long.

RED CROSS

Production for Quarter from January 1st to April 1st

NORTHWESTERN DIVISION

In spite of the fact that the signing of the Armistice caused a slight waning of the interest and support of some of the workers in the chapters, it is a matter of great satisfaction to note that the following summary of production shows that the chapters of the Northwestern Division have responded so splendidly to the call for continued effort in producing large numbers of refugee garments. While the total value of articles produced is only about half that of the corresponding quarter last year, it is due in part to the fact that the number of knitted articles, which are higher in price than the refugee garments, is smaller because the knitting for soldiers and sailors was discontinued about January 1st.

The production for the quarter from January 1 to April 1 was as follows:

247,924 surgical dressings, valued at $6,660.26.
75,687 hospital garments and supplies, valued at $89,777.50.
72,194 knitted articles, valued at $144,443.15.
75,707 refugee garments valued at $133,192.95.
Total number of articles produced 471,512.
Total value of articles produced, $374,073.86.

"We have learned much during the war," says the Junior Red Cross peace program prospectus, "but one of the most important of its lessons is the necessity for actually teaching service in our schools. It is perfectly clear now that the peoples of the earth and those of the states within our own nation cannot live apart from each other. In the future, therefore, education will emphasize service. It will make deliberate plans for teaching unselfishness and helpfulness to others. The great humanitarian appeal
